USC Columbia to Host South Carolina Campus Compact Service-Learning Day Institute
Thursday, April 8th, 2010
9:00a.m. – 3:00 p.m.
Cost of the institute is $35.00 per person as USC is a member institution. Non-SCCC members can attend at a rate of $50.00 per person.
*Lunch will be served and is included in the cost of registration.

South Carolina Campus Compact is pleased to host the first SCCC Service-Learning Day Institute at USC Columbia. The first SC Campus Compact Service-Learning Day Institute will feature leaders from across the state. Faculty, scholars, administrators, community partners and students are encouraged to submit abstracts that highlight their research, instruction or practice with service-learning and civic engagement. It is our hope that we have plenty of USC representation at this event. A call for proposals and proposal registration form is attached and there is still time to submit a proposal. Please consider submitting a workshop proposal or registering today! AmeriCorps*VISTA members, including our own Courtney Mirenzi, will highlight their work through posterboard presentations.

Seeking Qualified Professionals for the Central/Southern Regional Campus Compact Speakers Bureau
If you are interested in leading professional development as a speaker or facilitator on community engagement and scholarship please visit http://www.ccspeakersbureau.org.

Interested persons should select "Add Your Speaker Information". Following this submission, the state Campus Compact office will receive an email prompting its approval for the speaker, which will then generate notice to the Speakers Bureau administration at Oklahoma Campus Compact to add the person to the availability list. Please consider becoming a part of this cadre of professionals across the southeast.

University named to President’s Higher Education Community Service Honor Roll
The University has once again been named to the President’s Higher Education Community Service Honor Roll, the highest federal recognition a college or university can receive for its commitment to volunteering, service-learning, and civic engagement. The Corporation for National and Community Service, which administers the annual Honor Roll award, recognized more than 700 colleges and universities for their impact on issues from poverty and homelessness to environmental justice. College students make a significant contribution to the volunteer sector; in 2009, 3.16 million students performed more than 300 million hours of service. The distinction recognizes the integrative work of faculty, staff, students, and administrators at the University of South Carolina!

USC/Local Service and Scholarship Opportunities:

Oxfam Hunger Banquet
Monday, March 22, 2010, 7 – 8:30 pm
Russell House Ballroom

On Monday, March 22nd, 2010 at 7 pm the University of South Carolina’s Carolina Service Council (CSC) will be hosting the 15th annual OXFAM Hunger Banquet to inform and educate the campus about food inequity around the world. The event is open to all students, faculty, and staff free of charge. Participants will be placed in one of three economic classes: high, middle, or low. Each will be served a meal that is representative of what each group’s income could theoretically afford. Guest speakers for the event include Dr. Thomas Letterman and Dr. David Simmons, who will inform the crowd of problems of poverty and hunger both domestically and worldwide. CSC hopes to help students better understand the problems of world hunger issues, how we play a part in it, and how we can make a difference as students.

Please share information about this event with classes, co-workers, students, and organization. In the past, some professors have chosen to offer extra credit to students who attend from their courses. Admission to the event is free; however, CSC will be accepting canned food donations to benefit Harvest Hope Food Bank of Columbia. Please register online at http://www.sa.sc.edu/communityservice/csc/index.htm. Registration is encouraged, but not mandatory.

University of South Carolina Discovery Day
April 23, 2010
Russell House

Since 2003, Discovery Day has provided a professional avenue for students to share their experiences with service-learning activities, study abroad, internships, national fellowships, and undergraduate research and scholarly activities. Students will present poster, oral, creative, or artistic presentations as well as visual art displays. This includes theatrical, musical, or creative writing presentations. ALL presenters are undergraduate students at the University who have been selected because of academic merit, innovation, and creativity. Please save the date and plan to attend to support the scholarly endeavors of USC students.

New Community Internship Program
The Career Center is pleased to introduce the Community Internship Program (CIP). This program gives students the ability to earn a minimum of $10/hr with a summer internship in South Carolina. Our goal is to help students gain necessary work experience so that they will be more marketable to future employers. Please encourage students in your service-learning courses to continue work with community agencies over the summer through this program.

For students to be eligible for CIP, students must have a 2.0 GPA, have their resume reviewed by a career counselor, obtain full access on JobMate, have a minimum of 12 hours and attend a CIP Orientation. For more information, see www.sc.edu/career/cip. For questions or to book an outreach presentation for your student group, please contact Emelie Holm at (803) 777-1988 or HOLM@email.sc.edu.

Faculty/Staff Conferences or Professional Development Events:
Facing the Divides: Diversity, Learning, and Pathways to Inclusive Excellence
October 21-23, 2010, Houston, Texas
Call for Proposals

Facing the Divides: Diversity, Learning, and Pathways to Inclusive Excellence will address the deep divides that frequently exist on campus—diversity, global, and civic engagement efforts that exist in isolation from one another; academic affairs and student affairs occupying different "sides of the house;" and divided structures that steer some students toward a horizon-expanding liberal education and other students toward narrow training. AAC&U’s Network for Academic Renewal invites faculty, administrators, student affairs educators, students, and others to submit proposals that highlight research, promising practices, and innovative institutional structures related to five key areas:

- Framing Goals for Diversity and Inclusive Excellence
- Ensuring Access and Essential Learning
- Developing and Assessing Curricular and Co-curricular Programs
- Fostering Identity, Civility, and Democratic Classrooms
- Building Institutional Capacity to Make Excellence Inclusive

Funding/Publication Opportunities:

International Journal for Service Learning in Engineering: Humanitarian Engineering and Social Entrepreneurship (IJSLE)

Call for Papers

The IJSLE is a peer-reviewed electronic journal offered free, semi-annually, on the internet. To view the Journal, please log on to: www.ijsle.org The Journal welcomes manuscripts based on original work of students and researchers with a specific focus on projects related to humanitarian engineering and social entrepreneurship. The faculty-reviewed articles in each issue provide readers with timely information related to:
• Engineering Design in Service.
• Engineering Research in Service.
• Engineering-Related Entrepreneurship Projects in Service
• Pedagogy in Engineering-Related Service Learning.

The manuscript submittal deadline for this issue is May 30, 2010.

Community Works Journal

Community Works Journal is published online by Community Works Institute, in support of teaching practices that build community. CWJ is now in its fourteenth year of publication and continues to serve a crucial need for models and resources that inspire by example. The publication has an international audience of educators from schools, community-based programs, and networks. They are looking for articles that address or relate to innovative educational strategies and practices that involve teachers and students in meaningful work within their communities. Articles may feature curriculum or program examples, tools and teaching resources. They are especially interested in reflections on learning and the experience of community.

View the journal online at http://www.communityworksinsti-tute.org/cwjonline. To discuss your idea for an article contact Joe Brooks at 909-480-3966, or by email: jbrooks@communityworksonline.org
